SUMMARY SHEET

I. Description of Item:

Satellite networks perform during emergencies when land-based communications are not available. These MSAT satellite radios will be a vital asset in the event of an earthquake, hurricane or any other natural or manmade disaster. This equipment will serve each emergency management agency, the emergency operation center, and selected elected officials throughout the Memphis/Shelby Urban Area. The MSAT satellites act as one big radio tower for all of North America, turning the entire continent into a single cell. Users don't have to worry about service interruptions associated with roaming because it is all one network.

Talk groups can be configured to allow for inter-agency communications between local, regional, and national emergency response organizations. The coverage footprint also allows subscribers to expand or reduce dispatch radio coverage as their needs change.

Other features of this product include Push-to-Talk and Push-to Track services. Push-to-Talk provides point-to-multi-point and point-to-point communication at the push of a button. It allows landline and cell phone users to join MSAT group and private Push-to-Talk conversations. Push-to-Track delivers a powerful event driven tracking capability. Through a web-based mapping application fleet managers can locate their fleet assets with a mouse-click. GPS location information is transmitted when users initiate Push-to Talk or telephone calls.

Service fees including installation, set-up and activation is included in this resolution. Services will be sustained annually through ongoing UASI grant programs.

Administration recommends approval of this Resolution
